HAPPY YULETIDE FOR CHILDREN HERE PLANNED

Village Board Discusses Arrangements at Its Meeting Tuesday

The spirit of Christmas anticipation pervaded the meeting of the Antioch village board Tuesday evening, when plans to insure a happy Yule for children of the community were made. Christmas lights and other decorations are to be put up along Main street some time in the early part or middle of next week. The annual big "Community Christ-mas tree" will be a feature of the celebration, as in other years. Members of the village board are making individual contributions of supplies for the tree, and the firemen will help in trimming it and in distributing gilts. Ladies of the village will take charge of filling boxes for the youngsters. Plans for special entertainment fea-ures are also to be made. To Broadcast Carols The Antioch Lions club is arranging or the broadcasting of carols during he week preceding Christmas. Commencing on Saturday, Dec. 17, according to present plans, the carols are to he broadcast over a loudspeaker system at intervals of 20 minutes. The "community spirit" is being stressed throughout preparations for Antioch's Christmas observances.

Your War

"Keep the fifth man alive!" That is the slogan which is now being employed a drive to reduce the normally heavy winter automobile accident toll by at least 20 per cent. If the United States can keep up the pace set in the first ten months of the year, the 1938 death toll will be 8,000 less than 1937's. We are in the midst of the crucial period now. December is always a bad month. And, looking into next year, January, February and March, with snow, ice and short days, constitute a period of maximum hazard. The organized safety movement has reached a high point of efficiency. The technique of accident reduction has been amazingly perfected. Sporadic, desultory, localized safety campaigns have proven almost worthless. Instead, the safety education movement, supported by the casualty insurance industry through its National Conservation Bureau, state governments and numerous commercial and non-commercial groups, is attempting, with a high degree of success to reach every motorist

Thus, the safety experts are doing all they canand they are doing the biggest and best job in their history. The rest-and this is something you can't repeat too often—is up to the motorist and the pedestrian. The safety workers can offer you advice—but they can't open your ears and eyes if you insist on being deaf and blind. They can show you the road to safety-but they can't make you take it.

This war is your war. It is being fought to save your life, the lives of your friends and families, your property. Enlist in it now.

Going Ahead

There's no stopping a good thing—as some recent figures released by the Farm Credit Administration in-

Continuing their steady climbing out of depression, agricultural marketing cooperatives registered a 14 per cent increase in business volume in the last year. Transactions totaled but slightly less than $2,000,000,000—a rise of 10 per cent over 1936-37. Dairy products, with a value of $686,000,000, led the list, followed by grain. Notable improvement was likewise registered in cotton, fruits and vegetables.

The Middle of the Road

An editorial in the New York Times, one of Amerlca's foremost Democratic dailies, says: "A great number of Americans have been encouraged to believe that It is possible to grow richer by working less and by producing less; that it is the proper business of a government to subsidize large numbers of its people; that there is an inexhaustible supply of money which can be used endlessly for this purpose; that those who advise greater caution in the expenditure of public funds, or who urge a relaxation of restraints which needlessly handicap private enterprise, are merely 'ducal overlords' who stand in the way of all progress. The dangers involved in such a course as this are an eventual bankruptcy of the National Government and encouragement of class prejudice that ought to have no place in the United

It then points out that the last election indicates States." "the American people are moving toward the middle of

The people want social reform, where it is necessary. They want adequate provision made for the needy and the elderly. But at the same time they want to keep our institutions, our democratic heritage, inviolate. Disregarding all political partisanship, that's the best news in a long while.

Good Thoughts

Christmas is not a time or a season, but a state of mind. To cherish peace and good will, to be plenteous in mercy, is to have the real spirit of Christmas. If we think on these things, there will be born in us a Saviour and over us will shine a star sending its gleam of hope to the world.—Calvin Coolidge. The call of Christmas is a call to leave our own way and the world's way and to take the way of Christ. This is, indeed, our high calling of God in Christ Jesus. Pray that we be not altogether unworthy of it.-Dr. Charles

CAMPFIRE MUSINGS

(By Jack Hoag)

Prosperity is a goal that every country, city, village and individual is seeking and the shortest road to prosperity is to be found in co-operation. A nation, city, or village is just a gather-ing together of individuals and consequently, the prosperity of the nation is exactly in proportion to the prosperity of the individuals that compose

Whether we realize it or not, hu-manity is entirely dependent on its fellow man. Your prosperity is my prosperity and vice versa. If you are prosperous you have money to spend with me, and I in turn will have money with which to conduct my business. If the whole world could be made to realize this, and each individual would co-operate with his fellow man, lustead of trying to take advantage of him, what a world this would be to

For an outlander to attempt to tell a hustling town like Antioch what it needs may seem "nervy" but if the outlander has "vision" he can often sec what is overlooked by local mercantile and industrial heads for the reason that they see the same thing daily and its possibilities have ceased to register in their minds.

Antioch and its surrounding country have everything needed to put the town over in a big way. It is the center of a prosperous farming comcunity and it is located right in the heart of one of the most beautiful lake regions in the world. Men will go to the ends of the carth to make money, and they will spend money for fun. This proves that fun or sport is one of the most powerful drawing cards known to man. Give a man a good day's sport and he'll come again. Common sense should show everybody that every outsider who visits a locality is a direct asset to the community. (He spends money therel) And the money that he spends with one individual actually benefits every other individual in the district. It pays to greet the visitor with open arms. Every individual he meets should consider himself a reception committee and do his, or her, hest to show the visitor a good time.

"Calamity Howlers," as pessimists are called in the west, are not only a nuisance, they are an actual menace to parents must think up quick an- So he has helpers who ask boys the district in which they live. No one likes to listen to a hardluck story St. Nicholos, For Santo Claus, troubles enough of their own to werry about without listening to a tale of the woes of others. The merchant who is always talking about poor sales, or the farmer, who constantly talks of bad crops, taxes, etc., is actually driving trade (money) away from his door, and such talk not only affects their individual credit, (these tales reach the banker's ears), but they affect the standing of the community in which they live.

Common sease dictates that we Antiochi greet the visitor with a smile. Sure they are doing good work. We had it's a good day! even if it's raining they are doing good work. We had the pleasure of niceting them the other evening and learned something You can't stop the rain, and you other evening and learned something are liable to be interested, and when might just as well call it a good day of what had been done during the past you tell them the truth they are year. Here are the new Illinois Laws in brief

Financial Responsibility EFFECTIVE JULY 12, 1938

If you are in an automobile accident which results in damage to property of others, regardless of the amount, or in personal injuries or death, and final judgment is entered against you, if you lail to satisfy it within 30 days... you lose your license plates.

Your license will be reinstated only after you have satisfied the judgment and given evidence of Financial Responsibility for future accidents in the form of cash, approved securities or bond for $11,000.00. . . . or a proper insurance policy.

Driver's License

EFFECTIVE MAY 1, 1939

Every member of your family who drives any automobile must have a Driver's License. Adult charge is 50 cents. Minimum age 15 years. Applicants under 18 must have written consent of parent, guardian or employer.

License may be revoked for various reasons. When a Driver's License is revoked, the registration of all his cars is revoked and all license plates taken. He cannot get a new Driver's License or register any car until he gives proof of financial responsibility for future accidents.

ETTY PRICE dabbed a spot of rouge on each cheek, touched the places lightly for a natural effect, then dipped in the perfume bottle and rubbed the back of her small ears.

Tilting back the blurred mirror, she surveyed herself critically. The effect seemed entirely satisfactory. Betty sighed eestatically. "I look like a million dollars," she breathed. "I-I can almost convince myself that I am a great lady tonight."

Carefully her silver-slippered feet descended the narrow stairs. She must get away as quickly as possible. What would the unromantle Mr. and Mrs. James Barslow say if they saw the Cinderella of their kitchen arrayed in garments like these? Betty chuckled at the thought. They would think she had gone crazy if they found out that she had spent a whole month's salary to rent the things she wos wearing, and to buy a ticket for the opera. "But they never will find out," she told herself, as she care-fully closed the back door behind herself it must be the Christmas feeling in the air that made her do this daring thing. It was utterly ridiculous to dress up like a great lady, but one had to be different at Christmas. And life had been pretty dull for Betty since she had to accept the work she was doing. It of-fered very little inspiration.

The story of the opera took her back to a medieval world. In a few moments she was completely lost in its almosphere, so much so that she failed to notice that the man seated at her right was sending admiring glances in her direction. When the curtain went up, he leaned over and spoke.

"I love this," he said simply. "I do, too," Betty answered, with a little catch in her voice. It seemed incredible that he was speaking to her. He was really acting os if she belonged. By the time the curtain went up again they were calling each other Prince and Princess: taking the names of the two leading characters on the stage.

As the great drama moved to its close Betty tried to hurry away. She didn't want her Prince to find out what an impostor she was. But he had taken hold of her arm. "Couldn't we go and have some cof-fee?" he suggested. "I know I'm a stranger to you, but—but it's Christmas—and—"

"I should say 'no'," Betty told herself. "I should even tell him the truth about myself." Instead, she accompanied him to the coffee shop across the street. She couldn't deny herself this one hour of happiness. After it was over, well-Bet-ty would not let her thoughts go fur-

She almost forgot that she was playing a part as they sat together. They seemed to have so much in common. He had read widely—the type of books she liked; he took an interest in so many things she liked; seemed to be as romantic and visionary as herself. But he spoke no word to indicate that he wanted to see her again. She had been foolish to expect it.

Gloom enveloped the world for Betty next morning. As if to add to her humiliation and misery, a clogged-up drain was sending oozy brown water back into the sink. Her feet dragged across the floor as she enswered the plumher's knock.

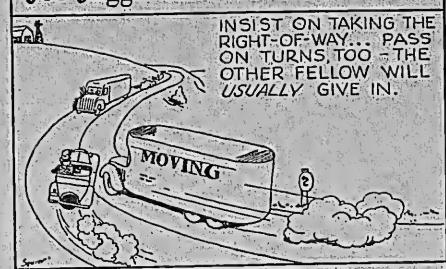

Then the world spun dizzly around her for a moment. A rush of joy, of wonder, lifted her heart. Her Prince was standing in the doorway, his evening clothes replaced by clean blue overalls, his good-looking face wrinkled in bewilderment.

"I-I thought you were-" he stammered.

"And I-I thought you were-" Belty gasped in answer.

When explanations were over, a make-believe Prince and Princess were wondering if Christmas wasn't the very nicest time for a wedding

Santa Rides Again

As far back as the 9th century we find mention of good old St. Nicholas (Santa Claus). He was the special protector of children, scholars, merchants and sailors . . . and is said to have originated the old custom of giving presents in secret on the Eve of Christmas Day. Santa was first brought to America by the early Dutch colonists and he has been a regular visitor since-Watch for him . . . he "rides again" for a greater 1938 Christmas!

Lesson for December 11

THE SIN OF COVETOUSNESS

LESSON TEXT—Exodus 20:17; Luke 12: 13-21; I Timothy 6:8-10.
GOLDEN TEXT—Thou shalt not covet.—

Lesson subjects and Scripture texts se-lected and copyrighted by International Council of Religious Education; used by

"The word of God is quick, and powerful, and sharper than any twoedged sword, piercing even to the dividing asunder of soul and spirit, and of the jaints and marrow, and is a discerner of the thoughts and intents of the heart! (Heb. 4:12). These are the words that came to the writer's mind as he read the Scripture portions assigned for this lesson. He would faln have set aside his own comments and used this column to print the words from the Bible. If any reader of these lines purposes to rend just these efforts to expound the truth, and

It seems peculiarly appropriate that this lesson on covetousness should come right in the midst of W. M. Bonner home Sunday. our preparations for Christmas, for things to God, fram outward preparation to the preparation of the heart, from greedy desire to true liberality of heart. Christmas may bo literally "made over" for all of us if we receive its truth.

I. A Command (Exod. 20:17).

"Thou shall not covet.". This last commandment carries us "beyond the domain of civil magistracy, into that intellectual reaim of motive, desire, and thought, Mrs. Carl Anderson, treasurer. where God alone is Lord and Judge" (Dykes). It deals with the heart, $3.95, $5.95. MariAnne's, Antioch. out of which are all the Issues of much that is wicked and destructive in the world—the covetousness of man. The lave of money makes ning. commandment" (Morgan).

11. A Warning (Luke 12:13-21). "Beware of covetousness."

The teaching of this passage is so directly opposite to all ideas regardtotal surprise to some readers and Mrs. William Jones.

The yardstick of success in the world—for an individual, and organization, or a nation; yes, even for many a church-is the possession of wealth, or property, or other "things." Write it then in large letters on the hearts and minds of our boys and girls, "A mon's life consisteth not in the abundance of the things which he possesseth" (v. 15).

The one who was known to his friends (and to himself) as "a rich man" (v. 10), but whom God knew as a "fool" (v. 20), had more than he could use for himself. He had to build new and bigger barns, and rould new and bigger barns, and could not see the "barns" that were already prepared, far, as Ambrose says, "Thou hast barns—the bosoms of the needy, the hauses of widows, the mouths of orphans and infants." He was a fool who loved money for himself. One wonders what he had to say for himself when Every Night except Mon. & Tues. that very night he was called into the presence of God to give an ac-count of his stewardship (v. 20). If you are similarly situated and have the same attitude, what will you say in that day?

An important point which we must note is that Jesus expressly repudiated the connecting of His name with the so-called "social gaspel" in His reply (v. 14) to the question of the covetous fellow who regarded his inheritance as of more im-partance than brotherly love. Those who are ignoring the gospel of redemption and claiming Jesus as a social reformer or the "judge and divider" of some new economic so-lution for the world's ills, need to read and ponder this verse. Every Christian is interested deeply in sacial problems, but knows that the first concern of Christ and His followers is the souls of men. III. A Way of Victory (I Tim. 0:6-

"Godliness with contentment."
As a minister of the gospel the writer would first remind himself that this was written by Paul to the prescher Timothy. Brethren in the ministry, let us not foll into the tempiation and snare that comes with the love of money. In this dizzy age when many are so intent on making money that they have no time for home and children, church and fellowship; when men produces a profit; when "for gold the home of Mrs. C. B. Hamin with men betray their country, their a good attendance, friends, their God, their immortal The P. T. Let us leach and exemplify in our lives the fact that the only real and worth while gain in life is "godliness with contentment."

American Turkey Has Foreign Name

You'll ent your turkey and like it his Christmas, but do you know where this festive bird got its name? The turkey is the only species of poultry native to this country. Its name is attributed by some to its call notes, "turk-turk-turk-turk"; others believe that its head ornaments, resembling the fez worn by natives of Turkey, gave rise to its name, Another explanation is seen in the fact that the first turkeys from America were sold in Spain, largely by Hebrew merchants. Since the bird was frequently confused with the peacock, it is said that the Hebrew traders called it "tukki," their name for the pencock. With the widespread use of this name in English, it ensily became the re-
